

The August 2017 Member Spotlight on Now Listen Here presented by owner, Matt Early at the August Merchant Meeting of the DID sponsored by the Lancaster City Alliance.

Now Listen Here specializes in helping people rediscover their music. Exploring both analog and digital solutions for the best music listening experience.

Like most people, we have embraced the digital age and enjoy the convenience of downloaded music and other forms of streaming music from the internet. It has allowed us to discover new music we may never have had the opportunity to hear before. Its portability has allowed us to take our favorite artists anywhere. The love of music is strong among many of us, both young and old, but have we traded quality for convenience? Has our desire for fast and easy taken away some of the essence and the experience of the music itself? Compressed music, cheap earbuds and inferior computer speakers are just a few of the compromises we have all made. But it doesn't mean we can't have both convenience and quality.

At NLH, we want you to experience the unique variety of products we have selected to improve your music listening experience. We have spent countless hours researching and listening to a wide variety of analog and digital electronics that were designed to deliver a superior musical performance. From turntables to digital amplifiers, headphones to wireless streaming, we specifically looked for affordable high-performance products. Every manufacturer we have chosen has been scrutinized for build quality, company longevity and press accolades. We're proud of the select components we carry and can't wait to show you what we found.

Come join us for a listen and rediscover your music!
